Outdoor Recreation Leadership & Community Oriented Policing

FamCamp
Creating Quality Time for Families

A program of the California State Parks to introduce community organizations to the benefits of outdoor recreation that would otherwise not have the opportunity. FamCamp® has 14 trailers statewide each loaded with camping gear to accommodate up to 36 people.

The goal of FamCamp® is to strengthen personal bonds and encourage healthy, positive recreational activities emphasizing team building and group interaction among members of community based organizations.

This exciting training focuses on the role of outdoor recreation leadership skills in community policing. The training combines outdoor recreation leadership, youth development principles and community policing tools. Participants will experience many outdoor challenge activities as well as plan, implement and evaluate an overnight camping trip. Participants will be prepared, not only to lead overnight camping experiences with more confidence, but develop strategies and techniques to enhance all of their community programming. By completing the training participants will have access to the California State Parks' FamCamp® program, gear, parks, a network of Rangers, other community organizations and trainers while introducing community groups to camping and the benefits of the outdoors.

Training Topics Include:

- Role of recreation in community building
- Youth development principles and community oriented policing strategies with implementation tools and tips
- Leadership development and networking opportunities
- Outdoor recreation skill development and program planning
- Group facilitation with diverse communities
- Team building activities and opportunities to enhance programming

Training Dates & Locations:

- May 2 – 4, 2006 at Folsom Lake State Recreation Area (Northern California)
- May 9 – 11, 2006 at Los Encinos State Park (Southern California)
- May 16 – 18, 2006 at Asilomar & Big Sur State Park (Central California)

Training sessions are three-day classes starting 8:00 a.m. the first day, a full 2nd day with an overnight camp-out ending at noon on the last day.

Cost:

- $250, payable at time of registration (includes training, meals during campout, use of camping equipment, training manual, camping fees.)
